

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a system and method for generating a blanking period indicator signal from sync information in video timing. The invention comprises an auto polarity detect processor adapted to automatically detect the polarity of at least one sync signal and a generation processor adapted to generate a DE signal.